

INDEX

A MONOCHROME FASHION QUARTERLY

let's enjoy the life

INDEXQUARTERLY.COM

CONTACT INFO

+1 212 555 0143

NEW YORK

EDITOR@INDEXQUARTERLY.COM

let's enjoy the life

INDEXQUARTERLY.COM

INT- RODUC- TION

“

We opened this issue with one question — what does modern dressing look like once the trend cycle goes quiet? The answer, page after page,...

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white.

embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white.

remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white.

INDEX

editor in chief

A MONOCHROME FASHION QUARTERLY

FASHION

01. THE NEW MODERN FASHION SHOW

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white.

studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white.

THE CUT, RECONSIDERED

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away...

LIGHT AS MATERIAL

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away...

CONTRIBUTORS

“The people who made this issue possible.”

WILLIAM JONES

Stylist

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, clo...

LINDA BRONN

Photographer

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, clo...

ISABELLA LINTON

Set Designer

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, clo...

THE NEW COLLECTION 2026

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry...

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white.

THE NEW FASHION

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white.

“

The most modern thing a garment can do is stay still long enough to be looked at properly.

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white. This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white.

FIELD NOTES

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do no...

04. NEW MINIMALIST FASHION ARRIVAL FOR THIS YEAR

2026

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white.

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white.

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white.

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white.

This season resolves around a single conviction: that clothes photographed honestly do not need embellishment. Cut, cloth and the fall of light carry the argument, and the studio strips away the rest. What remains is proportion, texture, and the quiet discipline of black and white.

THE ARRIVALS EDIT

